

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

HISTORY OF SAVINGS BANKS.

THE beneficent spirit of the present age is in nothing more remarkably displayed, than in the combined energy with which individuals of the highest ranks of society are labouring to promote the welfare of the lower orders.

In order to convey an impression of the imperious necessity of Saving Institutions for the industrious Poor, the following striking passage from "Sir Thomas Bernard's introductory Letter to the third volume of the Reports of the Society for bettering the condition of the Poor," is quoted; "The poor laws of England have held out a false and deceitful encouragement to population. They promise that unqualified support, that unrestricted maintenance to the cottager's family, which it is not possible for them to supply, thereby inducing the young labourer to marry before he has made any provision for the married state; and, in consequence, extinguishing all prospective prudence, and all consideration for the future."

The establishment of male Friendly Societies, for nearly a century past, has, to a certain extent, counteracted the pressure of poor rates, and the growth of those baneful habits of dependence, which it cannot be denied that poor rates are calculated to produce. By the different Acts which have been passed for the encouragement of Friendly Societies, much good has been done; as, in these, no attempts have been made to alter the popular frame of these associations, far less to render the entrance into them compulsory.

The advantages which have arisen, both to the individual contributors and to the public, from these societies, have been great; and it is very gratifying to observe, that in most parts of the United Kingdom, female Friendly Societies have also been formed. Much has been said of the dangerous purposes to which these associations may be turned. The late Mr. Rose, certainly not a partial judge in such a case, intimates that he believes such apprehensions to be chimerical, and expressly declares, that "though he has sought anxiously for information on that head, he has not been able to discover a single instance where those consequences have followed, in the case of a society whose rules were registered according to law." To the truth of this assertion the Editor of the present Work is able to testify; for, though since the passing of the 10 Geo. 4, c. 56, intituled, "An Act to consolidate and amend the Laws relating to Friendly Societies," the rules of a considerable number of societies from all parts of England and Wales have been submitted to him for his inspection and certificate; and although in some instances the contingencies insured against were not natural or within the provisions or intentions of the legislature, yet in no one instance have the rules of any enrolled society (which have come before him) been framed so as to enable the funds to be applied to any dangerous or unconstitutional purposes.

To detect the commencement, and to prevent the progress of such evil consequences, the Editor of the Quarterly Review (October 1816) justly observes, that an easy expedient occurs : let the wealthy and intelligent members of the community become honorary or ordinary members of the Friendly societies in their neighbourhood ; they will thus be entitled to vote at the election of officers, to give their opinion in cases of importance, and to awe into silence those turbulent spirits who may wish to propagate mischief. The higher ranks may be assured that their aid, not only in contributing to the funds, but in making the proper arrangements, is much wanted, and will be gladly and gratefully received and acknowledged ; indeed they can scarcely purchase so much popularity at so trifling an expense. Their donations and contributions would be doubly acceptable, as they would be given without the prospect of a return ; and this feeling, it is well known, has a powerful influence in adding to the respect which poverty and ignorance are disposed to pay to intelligence and wealth. The Editor of the present publication cannot omit here noticing how much both the public and the well wishers of institutions of this nature are indebted to the Rev. J. T. Becher, M.A. of Southwell, for his valuable publication on the constitution of Friendly Societies upon legal and scientific principles, as well as for his constant and unremitting exertions to promote the welfare of the industrious classes, in the furtherance of which no personal labour or expense has at any time been regarded.

Friendly Societies partake of the nature of insurances on life, by promising certain advantages in the event of certain natural contingencies. They are preferable, however, to common insurance offices, inasmuch as the members insure each other, and retain all the profits in their own hands for the general advantage. There is also a benevolent principle intimately blended with Friendly Societies, which leads those who form them to be concerned for each other's welfare, and to consult for each other's good. Admirable, however, as this principle is, and excellent as are the institutions with which it is connected, the benefits to be derived from them by the individual members are often distant, and in their very nature uncertain. Industrious persons have been known, who have regularly contributed to Friendly Societies for years without receiving a shilling from the funds. Something more, therefore, seemed to be wanting, in order to complete the system of encouragement to saving, which the legislative support of Friendly Societies had begun, and the desideratum has been happily supplied by the institution of BANKS for SAVINGS. In No. 59 of "The Report of the Society for bettering the condition of the Poor," there is an interesting account of a benovolent Institution formed by the Rev. Joseph Smith at Wendover, in 1799, and supported by him and two of his parishioners. In order to induce their industrious neighbours to save part of their earnings, these worthy persons circulated proposals, offering to receive, indiscriminately, from the men, women and children of the parish, any sum, from twopence upwards, every Sunday evening during the summer months, to keep an exact account of the sums deposited, and to repay to each individual at Christmas, the amount of his deposit, with the addition of one-third to the whole as a bounty for his economy. It was expressly and wisely stipulated, that the depositors might receive back the sums respectively due to them at any time before Christmas on demand, and that the fruit of their economy should not preclude them from parish relief in case of sickness or want of employment: a comfortable addition at home, to the family Christmas dinner, was to finish the year's account. These curious proposals are ushered in by a text, which, though not applied to its original purpose, is as a motto sufficiently appropriate, "Upon the first day of the week, let every one of you lay by him in store as God hath prospered him." The peasantry of the parish readily embraced the offer held out to them, and during the first season sixty subscribers brought their weekly savings with great regularity; none deposited less than sixpence, and the greater number one shilling each. The next institution of this kind, and one much more nearly resembling the present Savings Banks, was called the Charitable Bank, and was founded at Tottenham. It is worthy of remark (as showing how frequently one good design generates another) that the success of the little Bank for children, formed in the same place in 1798 gave rise to the more extensive plan in 1804. It was begun for the express purpose of providing a safe and profitable place of deposit for the savings of labourers, servants, &c.; and opened once a month for receipt and payment. The books were at first kept by a lady; six wealthy individuals were appointed to act as trustees, each of whom agreed to receive an equal part of the sums deposited, and each to be responsible to the amount of £100 for the repayment of the principal with interest. Any sum above one shilling was to be received; and to encourage perseverance, interest at the rate of five per cent. was to be allowed for every 20s. which should remain a year with the trustees. Though the number of trustees at first was limited, it was agreed that for every additional £100 a new trustee should be chosen, so that the loss to the trustees in fulfilling their engagements must have been inconsiderable. The benefits of this institution were to be confined exclusively to the labouring classes; but there was no restriction as to the residence of the depositors. One great advantage of a Savings Bank is, that it holds out to the lower classes fixed advantages, and preserves their little property from that fluctuation of value to which the Public Funds are liable. In 1808, a society was formed at Bath, for the purpose of receiving and allowing interest at four per cent., for the savings of industrious and respectable servants. Eight individuals, four were ladies, took on themselves the chief management and responsibility. No depositor could lodge more than £50; and the maximum of the collective sums was limited to £2,000.

From this indication of facts, it is plain, to quote the words of the Quarterly Review (from which the previous observations are principally taken,) that though attempts have been made, at different times in the course of the last forty years, to introduce schemes of a nature similar to what are now called Savings Banks, yet, till the year 1810, there had been no plan devised for general use, and no public interest excited in behalf of such institutions.

In 1773, a bill was brought into the House of Commons for enabling parishes to grant deferred annuities to their poor and industrious inhabitants. It was brought in by Mr. Dowdeswell, and was supported by Sir George Saville, Edmund Burke, and many other eminent persons; it passed the House of Commons with a decided majority, but was thrown out in the Lords. The preamble to this bill stated—

“Whereas it often happens that persons engaged as journeymen in manufactures and handicraft trades, and, likewise, household servants, labourers, and divers other persons, get more money as the wages of their labour and service, than is sufficient for their present maintenance, and might easily, if they were so minded, lay by, out of their said gettings, a sufficient sum to provide for their support in their old age.

“And whereas, it would be highly useful both to the said persons themselves, and to the nation in general, that they should endeavour to make such provision for their support in the latter periods of their lives, as they would thereby become more sober and virtuous in their ordinary course of life, and more industrious in the prosecution of their several callings and employments, which would tend to the increase of the riches and the manufactures of this kingdom.

“And whereas it is probable that many of the said persons might be induced to lay up some part of their earnings in their youth and middle age, in order to make such provision for their old age, if a convenient opportunity were offered them, of employing the money they should so lay up in a safe and advantageous manner.

“And whereas the most safe and advantageous way in which the said frugal and industrious persons can employ the several sums of money which they may be able to save out of their wages, for the support of their old age, seems to be to purchase therewith annuities for their lives, which should commence at some remote period, when their strength and ability to work will be considerably impaired; and the poor's rates of the several parishes in England or Wales seem likely both to be, and to be thought by the said industrious and frugal persons a sufficient and convenient fund to secure, at all events, the payment of such life annuities as aforesaid, to the several persons who shall have purchased them, in case any deficiency should happen in the fund created for the payment of the said annuities by the monies that shall have been paid for the purchase of them.

The operative part of the bill provided that the poor rates should be liable, in case the fund raised by the deposits failed; that the minister, churchwardens, and overseers should be the managers of these annuities; that no annuity granted to a man should commence before he were fifty years of age, nor to a woman before she were thirty. The annuities were computed on a money interest of £3 per cent.; the grants were to have been restricted to the inhabitants having legal settlements in the parish; impediments were imposed against the alienation of grants; and it was provided, that the scheme should not be opened in any parish unless a majority of the rated inhabitants in number and value should agree to it, at a meeting duly convened for the purpose.

In 1789, an attempt was made to give effect to a plan for enabling the labouring poor to provide support for themselves in sickness, as well as old age, by small weekly savings from their wages. A bill for establishing a plan of this kind was brought in by Mr. Ackland, and amended and approved by the House of Commons. A set of tables were also constructed by Dr. Price, at the request of a Committee of the House, upon which the plan was to have proceeded; but this bill, like Mr. Dowdeswell's, was rejected by the Lords.

In 1808, the late Mr. Whitbread brought a bill into the House of Commons for promoting industry among the labouring classes of the community, and for the relief and regulation of the necessitous and criminal poor; this bill, as amended by the Committee, recited that—

“Whereas such of the labouring poor as are desirous of making out of their earnings some savings, as a future provision for themselves or their families, are discouraged from so doing by the difficulty of placing out securely the small sums which they are able to save, and it would tend to promote habits of industry and frugality, and to encourage the poor to make a provision for themselves and their families if an establishment were formed, in which they might invest their money with security and advantage.”

The bill then provided for the establishment of an office in the Metropolis to be under the control and direction of Commissioners, to be appointed by His Majesty, assisted by proper officers; the persons who sought the benefit of this establishment were to remit to the accountant thereof, by the General Post, or otherwise, any sum not exceeding five pounds. These sums were to be invested in the Government funds, and the contributors to be benefited thereby in proportion to the dates and amount of their respective contributions. The bill embraced several other objects connected with the relief and bettering of the condition of the poor; but it was ultimately withdrawn.

Mr. Henry Duncan states, that early in 1810, while he was engaged in some inquiries relative to the condition of the poor, he read a pamphlet, proposing a scheme for the gradual abolition of poor rates in England. To this plan the author, Mr. Bone, gave the whimsical title of “Tranquillity.” Mr. Duncan, though he considered the scheme too complicated for general use, conceived that one of its subordinate provisions, which proposed the establishment of an economical bank for the savings of the industrious, might be so modified as to be carried separately into effect with great advantage. He accordingly published a paper giving an account of it, and proposing, that the gentlemen of Dumfriesshire should establish banks for savings in the different parishes of the county. His zeal was applauded, but his recommendation was neglected. Steady, however, in the pursuit of his object, and rejoicing in the prospect of the benefit which he anticipated from it, he resolved to bring his plan to the test of experiment, by such an establishment in his own parish. To this he gave the name of “The Parish Bank Friendly Society of Ruthwell.” Its capital amounted at the time of publishing the second edition of his Essay, to a sum exceeding £1,400

It appears, therefore, on the whole, that though some institutions similar both in their principles and details, had been formed before the Parish Bank of Ruthwell, yet it was the first of the kind which was regularly and minutely organized and brought before the public; and further, that as that society gave the impulse which is fast spreading through the kingdom, it is in all fairness entitled to the appellation of the Parent Society. If we spoke of the original Society, the Charitable Bank at Tottenham would be entitled to that appellation.

Although previous to the year 1817 there were no less than seventy Savings Banks established in England, four in Wales, and four in Ireland, it was not till that period that any legislative provisions were made relating to these institutions. On the 11th July, 1817, the 57 Geo. 3, c. 105, was passed, intituled, "An Act to encourage the Establishment of Banks for Savings in IRELAND;" and on the 12th July, in the same year, the 57 Geo. 3, c. 130, was passed, to encourage the establishment of Banks for Savings in ENGLAND. Under these Acts, the trustees and managers (who were prohibited from receiving any profit, benefit or advantage from the institution) were required to enrol the Rules of the Institution at the sessions, and the depositor was restricted to the investment of £50 in each year, in Ireland; in England the amount allowed to be invested was £100 the first year, and £50 every year afterwards, except in the case of Friendly Societies, which were not limited to any amount. The money received from depositors, when it amounted to the sum of £50 was allowed to be paid by the trustees into the Banks of Ireland or England respectively, to the account of the Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt, and placed in an account, denominated, "The Fund for the Banks for Savings." For the amount so invested, the trustees received a debenture, carrying interest at the rate of three-pence per centum per diem, or £4 11s. 3d. per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly in May and November. The interest usually paid to the depositors was four per cent. per annum, or one halfpenny per month on fifteen shillings. The depositor in a Savings Bank established under either of these Acts was not restricted in the amount of the sum he invested, although his annual payments were limited; neither was he prevented from investing at the same time in as many different Savings Banks as he thought proper. Other provisions were also made, for exempting all instruments from stamp duty, as well as the probate and letters of administration, when the deceased depositor's effects were under a certain amount; and in case of dispute between the Institution and a depositor, the same was to be settled by arbitration.

By the 58 Geo. 3, c. 48, (30 May, 1818) intituled, "An Act to amend an Act passed in the last session of Parliament to encourage the establishment of Banks for Savings in England," certain alterations were made in the mode of investment by the trustees; central banks were allowed to invest the money of branch banks; and the Justices at sessions were authorized to reject any rules of Savings Banks deposited with the clerk of the peace for enrolment, if they disapproved of them. By the 1 Geo. 4, c. 83, (24 July, 1820) intituled, "An Act to amend two Acts of the fifty-seventh and fifty-eighth years of His late Majesty for the encouragement of Banks for Savings in England," the provisions respecting debentures were repealed, and the mode of investment by the trustees was again altered; fresh provisions were also made respecting the withdrawing of money by the trustees or their agent. Charitable societies were by this Act allowed to subscribe any portion of their funds, and the trustees of Savings Banks were authorized from time to time to make rules for the application of the profits amongst the depositors.

By the 5 Geo. 4, c. 62, (17 June, 1824,) intituled, "An Act to amend the several Acts for the encouragement of Banks for Savings in England and Ireland," all the provisions in the former Acts relating to the issuing of debentures to the trustees of banks in Ireland were repealed, and others enacted, similar to those which were then in existence relating to those institutions in England. It was also provided by this Act, that no application of the surplus funds of any Savings Bank in England or Ireland should be made until after the expiration of ten years from the date of the first establishment of the institution. Further alterations were made in the mode of investment by the trustees. Deposits of any one depositor were not to exceed £50 on the first year, after 20 November, 1824, nor £30 in any one year after, nor beyond £200 in the whole, exclusive of interest. Depositors having made their full deposit in any year might withdraw such sums, and again subscribe to the same amount. Persons were allowed to subscribe as trustees on behalf of others. Charitable Societies were prevented from investing any of their funds. Subscribers to one Savings Bank were not to subscribe to another. Deposits might be withdrawn from one Savings Bank to be placed in another. The trustees were obliged to invest the money of depositors with the Commissioners. Security was required to be given by persons receiving salary, &c. The accounts were required to be made up annually, and transmitted to the Commissioners, and a duplicate affixed in the office of the Savings Bank, &c.

By the 9 Geo. 4, c. 92, (28 July, 1828), intituled, "An Act to consolidate and amend the Laws relating to Savings Banks," all the previous Acts were repealed; the rules of every Savings Bank are to be signed by two trustees, and submitted to a Barrister appointed by the Commissioners for the reduction of the National Debt, for his certificate, previously to their being deposited with the clerk of the peace, s. 4. Justices may reject or confirm rules, s. 4. No treasurer, trustee or manager, shall derive any benefit from any deposit, or directly or indirectly have any salary, allowance, profit or benefit from the Institution, beyond their actual expenses for the purposes of the institution, s. 6. Every treasurer, actuary or cashier entrusted with the receipt of money, and every officer, &c., receiving salary or allowance, must give security by bond, to be approved of by not less than two trustees and three managers, s. 7. Effects of institution are declared to be vested in trustees for the time being, s. 8. No trustee or manager is personally liable, except for his own acts and deeds, and not then, except in cases of wilful neglect or default, s. 9. Treasurers, &c., to account and deliver up effects upon demand of two trustees and three managers; in case of default, application may be made to Justices at sessions, s. 10. The money belonging to Savings Banks must be invested in Bank of England or Ireland, in names of Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt, s. 11. Bank of England or Ireland, on receiving £50 from Savings Bank on account of Commissioners, &c., to place the sum to account called, "The Funds for the Banks for Savings;" and trustees to make declaration that the money belongs exclusively to institution, s. 11. Not to prevent trustees from receiving money from depositors to be applied in any other manner, s. 12. Central Banks may invest money of branch banks, s. 13. Monies paid in on Savings Banks' account, to be invested in purchase of Bank annuities or exchequer bills, s. 15. On payment of money to account of Commissioners, &c., their officers to give a receipt for the same, carrying interest at  $2\frac{1}{4}d.$  per cent. per diem, chargeable on the stock or exchequer bills standing in names of Commissioners, s. 16. Interest due on money mentioned in receipt to be calculated, half-yearly, up to 20 May and 20 November, and carried to account of Savings Bank as additional principal, s. 17. The mode of drawing the money by the trustees is directed in s. 18 to 21; and by s. 22, provision was made for the application of the surplus fund to 20 November, 1828; from 20 November, 1828, the surplus is to be annually transferred to the Commissioners, who are to keep a separate account thereof, subject at all times to the claim of the trustees, when required for the purposes of the institution by which it has been so transferred, s. 23. The interest payable to depositors must not exceed £3 8s.  $5\frac{1}{4}d.$  per cent. per annum, s. 24. Savings of minors may be invested, s. 25. The trustees are authorized, in certain cases, to pay money to married women in respect of deposits made by them, s. 26. Charitable Societies may invest sums not exceeding £100 per annum, or £300 in the whole, exclusive of interest, s. 27. Friendly Societies, legally established previous to 28 July, 1828, may deposit any part of their funds; but Friendly Societies established after that day, can only invest to the amount of £300, principal and interest included, (but by 4 & 5 W. 4, c. 40, s. 9, this section is repealed, and Friendly Societies, legally established, may now invest their funds to any amount in a Savings Bank,) s. 28. Every depositor must disclose his or her name, together with his or her profession, business, calling and residence, and the same to be entered in the books of the institution, s. 32. Persons allowed to subscribe as trustees in behalf of others, whether the trustees are themselves depositors or not; deposits to be entered in the joint names, but the receipt of the trustee, &c., to be valid, s. 33. Subscribers to one Savings Bank shall not subscribe to any other; declaration to be made at the time of subscription; if declaration false, deposit forfeited to the sinking fund, s. 34. Deposit of any one depositor shall not exceed £30 in any one year, nor beyond £150 in the whole; when sum amounts to £200 no interest payable, s. 35. Not to affect deposits of or above £200 on the 28 July, 1828; but the trustees not to receive fresh deposits from persons whose deposits amount to £150, ss. 36, 37. Depositors may withdraw their deposits and again subscribe, provided the sum deposited in any one year does not exceed £30 additional principal money, s. 38. Deposits may be withdrawn from one Savings Bank and placed in another, s. 39. Depositor dying, leaving money in institution exceeding £50, probate or administration must be taken out; but where the whole estate, &c., of depositor does not exceed £50 no stamp duty is chargeable thereon, &c.; certificate of amount and value of depositor's interest to be given by trustees, and produced on claiming probate, &c., ss. 40, 41. Where the money due to a depositor dying intestate shall not exceed £50, the same may be divided according to the rules of the institution, if the trustees are satisfied that no will was made, and that no letters of administration will be taken out; in the event of there being no rules, &c., the division to be made according to the Statute of Distributions,

s. 41. Payment to persons appearing to be next of kin, declared valid, s. 42. Payments under probates of wills, &c., afterwards repealed, shall be valid, s. 43. Powers of attorney, &c., given by trustees or depositors, not liable to stamp duty, s. 44. Where disputes arise, same to be referred to arbitrators, and, in case of their not agreeing, to be settled by the Barrister, s. 45. Savings Banks to make up, annually, account of their progress, &c., stating the balance, and in whose hands, and transmit such account, within six weeks after the 20th day of November in each year, to the Commissioners; if trustees neglect to deliver such returns, Commissioners may close their accounts, &c., s. 46. A duplicate of such account to be affixed in the office of the Savings Bank, and depositor entitled to printed copy on payment of one penny, s. 47. Account shall be annually laid before Parliament by Commissioners, of gross amount of all sums received and credited, &c., s. 48. Savings Banks to compute interest to 20th May and 20th November, half-yearly or yearly, s. 49. The remaining clauses of the Act apply solely to the transactions of the Commissioners in reference to the purchase and sale of Exchequer Bills, &c., and therefore are not considered to be of sufficient importance to be noticed at greater length in the present publication.

By the 3 W. 4, c. 14, intituled "An Act to enable depositors in Savings Banks and others, to purchase Government Annuities through the medium of Savings Banks, and to amend an Act of the ninth year of His late Majesty, to consolidate and amend the Laws relating to Savings Banks." (10 June, 1833). The executors, administrators or assignees of officers of Savings Banks or parochial societies, are bound to pay money due from such officer to any Savings Bank, &c., before any other debt, s. 28. So much of 9 Geo. 4, c. 92, as relates to withdrawing deposits and redepositing, is repealed; and no money exceeding £30 can be deposited in any one year, ending on 20 November, s. 29. If annual returns are not made pursuant to 9 Geo. 4, c. 92, s. 46, the name of the Savings Bank making default, to be published in Gazette, s. 30; detailed statement of expenses may be required from trustees or managers, s. 31. When money is in hands of treasurer, his certificate to accompany statement, s. 32.

By 3 W. 4, c. 14, s. 34, the provisions of the 9 Geo. 4, c. 92, and of 3 W. 4, c. 14, are extended to GUERNSEY, JERSEY, and ISLE OF MAN.

By 5 & 6 W. 4, c. 37, intituled "An Act to extend to SCOTLAND the provisions of an Act of the ninth year of His late Majesty, to consolidate and amend the Laws relating to Savings Banks, and to consolidate and amend the Laws relating to Savings Banks in Scotland." (9 September, 1835). Provisions of 9 Geo. 4, c. 92, and 3 W. 4, c. 14, extended to SCOTLAND, s. 1; 59 Geo. 3, c. 62, (Scotch Savings Banks Act,) repealed, except as to Banks already established under it, s. 2. Existing Banks may conform to 9 Geo. 4, c. 92, and 3 W. 4, c. 14, in preparing and depositing the rules, s. 3. Application of the law of Scotland in cases of death of depositors, s. 4.

In order further to assist the industrious classes to lay up a provision in advanced age, an Act was passed in 1833, (3 W. 4, c. 14,) intituled "An Act to enable depositors in Savings Banks and others, to purchase Government Annu- ties through the medium of Savings Banks, and to amend an Act of the ninth year of His late Majesty, to consolidate and amend the Laws relating to Savings Banks." By s. 1, trustees of Savings Banks may receive money from depositors, &c., for purchase of immediate or deferred Annuities. Annuities to be contracted for by two trustees or managers, on behalf of Commissioners, &c. Money paid to trustees on account of purchase of Annuity, to be kept distinct and paid to account of Commissioners, s. 2. Annuities not to be granted on the life of any nominee under fifteen years of age, or to exceed £20 per annum. Commissioners, &c., may decline to contract for any Annuity; if party be possessed of Annuity exceeding £20, same to be forfeited, s. 3. Amount of fee to be taken on application for purchase of Annuity, not to exceed 2s. 6d., nor more than 1s. annually, to be applied in defraying the necessary expense of trustees, s. 4. Payments may be made, and Annuities received at other Savings Banks, &c., than that at which the contract was originally entered into, s. 5. Lords of Treasury shall direct use of tables of the value of Annuities as approved of by the Treasury, may alter tables, but notice of adoption of other tables to be published in Gazette. These tables may be obtained (free of expense,) by application to the Certifying Barrister, s. 6. Purchasers of Annuities for lives or for years, shall be entitled to such Amount of Annuity as shall be specified in the tables, s. 7. The fractional part of Annuity less than sixpence not to be paid, s. 8. Life Annuities granted under the Act, shall be carried to a separate account, as also Annuities for years, s. 9. Any person may purchase a life Annuity on life of nominees of other Annuitants, without fresh proof of age, s. 10. Amount of Annuities from time to time payable shall be certified to the Treasury, who shall issue their warrant to the Bank for payment thereof out of the consolidated fund, s. 11. Annuities granted under this Act to be payable half-yearly, on 5 January, and 5 July, or on 5 April, and 10 October, in each year. One quarter's payment on death of nominee of Life Annuities, if proof thereof be produced to Commissioners, within two years, after the death; proviso as to deferred Annuities, s. 12. Bargains for Annuities not to be made for fourteen days after the quarterly days for payment, s. 13. Contracts for Annuities to be sanctioned by Commissioners before they are entered into, s. 14, on production of proof of existence, &c., certificate shall be granted for payment of Life Annuity, s. 15. Annuities for terms of years to be paid without proof, s. 16. Annuities granted under this Act, not transferrable except in cases of bankruptcy or insolvency, and in that event, Commissioners are to repurchase Annuity, &c., s. 17. Annuity not subject or liable to taxes, &c., and to be deemed personal estate, s. 18. If annual payments are not kept up, or if party die before Annuity commences, all payments to be returned, s. 19. Registers, receipts, &c., exempt from stamp duty, s. 20. Appointment of clerks and officers, s. 21. Expenses of Act, how to be defrayed, s. 22. Quorum of Commissioners, s. 23. Account to be annually laid before Parliament of Annuities granted, and of money paid for Annuities, s. 24. Monies paid to Commissioners on account of this Act, to be invested in Bank Annuities for terms of years, or Exchequer Bills. Commissioners may reserve a part of such sums, to repay money claimed in case of death, &c., of party purchasing Annuity, s. 25. Commissioners may sell and dispose of Bank Annuities, &c., now standing in their names, pursuant to 9 Geo. 4, c. 92, and 10 Geo. 4, c. 56; and purchase other Bank Annuities, &c., in lieu thereof, s. 26. Trustees of Savings Banks may make rules for carrying the provisions of this Act into execution, s. 27. Where no Savings Bank is legally established, other trustees may establish a society for the purpose of granting Annuities; and the provisions of 9 Geo. 4, c. 92, are made applicable to any society formed under this Act.

A Society established under this Act is for the purpose of enabling the Industrious Classes to purchase, by the payment of a certain Sum, in the first instance, or by weekly, monthly, quarterly, or annual instalments, an Annuity of not less than £4 or more than £20 per Annum, to commence at any Age the Purchaser may please. The Annuity is payable half-yearly, and will not be subject or liable to any Taxes, &c.

If the Purchaser of an Annuity payable at a future time, die before the period arrives at which the Annuity is to commence, the whole of the money paid will be returned, without any deduction, to his or her Family or Friends; and if the money so returnable is under £50, it will not be necessary that Letters of Administration should be taken out to the effects of the deceased.

If the Purchaser is incapable of continuing the payment of his instalments after the Annuity has been contracted for, he or she may at any time, after giving three months' notice, receive back the whole of the money paid; and should the Purchaser remove to any other part of the kingdom, he or she may continue his or her payments, or receive the Annuity at any other Society established under the Stat. 3 Will. 4, c. 14.

The great advantage offered by this Society is, that no person can lose any part of the money contributed, and if the Purchaser of an Annuity live to the Age at which it is to commence, he or she will receive an Annuity, payable by the Government, equivalent to the value of all his or her Payments, with the accumulation of Compound Interest; in addition to which, at his or her death, a Sum equal to one-fourth part of the Annuity will be paid to his or her Representatives.

The management of the Society is wholly gratuitous, the Managers acting as the Agents of the Government; an admission fee of 2s. 6d. is paid by each person on contracting for an Annuity, as well as the annual sum of 1s. towards defraying the necessary expenses of the Institution. And any party may belong to it, whether residing in the parish or not.

The Tables have been calculated for every year of age from 15 to 70; for deferred terms for every year from 10 to 65.

It would not be possible to print in this publication the whole of the Tables which have been prepared by the Government for the granting of Annuities by Savings Banks and Parochial Societies, but the same may be obtained free of expense, by application to the Certifying Barrister: but the following extracts contain the calculations for those periods which appear to be most practically useful, and show the yearly sum required for an Annuity of £20, payable at the second quarter next following the number of years mentioned, reckoning from the time of purchase.

The annual payments may be made by weekly, monthly, or quarterly instalments, as may suit the convenience of the party; or instead thereof, a certain sum may be paid down in the first instance.

* EXAMPLE.—On the 13th of December, 1833, a person (whether male or female), aged 24, and under 25, contracts, by annual payments, for an annuity of £20 a year, to be enjoyed by him or her during the rest of his or her life, after the expiration of 30 years, reckoning such period from the time of purchase. Under that contract the party would receive the first half-yearly payment of the said Annuity on the 5th April, 1864, that being the second quarterly day of payment next following the expiration of the Term for which the Annuity was agreed to be deferred. In this case the party would be required, first, to pay down £4 3s. on entering into the contract on the 13th December, 1833, or to have made 12 monthly payments of 6s. 11d. previous to that day; and, secondly, to continue to make the same payments of £4 3s. annually, on or before the 10th of October, in each of the succeeding 30 years; the last, or 30th annual payment, being to be made on the 10th October, 1863.

If the party were to die on the 1st October, 1840, or at that time to become incapable of continuing his payments, the sum of £29 1s., being the amount of what he had paid, would be returned by the Society.

That the interference of the Legislature in taking these institutions under its protection must be highly advantageous to the industrious classes, as well as to the public at large, must be evident at the first sight of our labouring population, especially when it is considered that in addition to the positive advantages arising to the poor, whom it is professed to have principally in view, collateral benefits are derived from the plan by no means immaterial. Every person who has vested his savings in the public funds has a stake in the security of the country, proportioned not merely to the sum total of those savings, but to the value of that sum to himself, and will be deterred from compassing the disturbance of his native land by a personal motive, added to the influence of duty. He will feel the importance of public peace and public credit with that strong conviction which individual interest never fails to inspire: and in answer to the objections of those who would be jealous of the support thus obtained to the ruling powers, it should be observed, that he who possesses property in a country is not interested in the stability of the administration for the time being, but in the perpetual stability of universal order and good government.

At page 79 it will be seen, that on the 20th November, 1841, to which day the last Official Returns are made up, there were FIVE HUNDRED and FIFTY-FIVE Savings Banks established in the United Kingdom, with a capital of £24,474,689, and as there were no less than 841,204 Accounts open, out of which 470,402 were those of Depositors under £20 each, the average amount being not more than £7, and that the number of Depositors exceeding £200 each was only 3,012; it is evident (considering that some of these institutions have been established for more than twenty-five years, and at first without any limit as to amount of investments,) that the Savings Banks of this country have not been abused in the manner generally supposed, but that they are what the Legislature originally intended them to be, viz. places of deposit for the custody and increase of small savings belonging to the industrious classes of Her Majesty's subjects; and if the amount of investments is compared with the population of each county, it will be seen that the average is considerably in favour of the agricultural districts.

To those Noblemen, Clergymen, and others who have come forward, and assisted by their donations as well as personal exertions, in the establishment and support of Savings Banks, the thanks of every well-wisher of the prosperity and happiness of his country are due, particularly when it is considered that from the establishment of these institutions to the present time, the whole management (with the exception of the office of secretary) is not only undertaken and conducted gratuitously, but in all cases has been, and in many instances is now, attended with expense to the trustees and managers.

In the following pages, the Editor has arranged the different Savings Banks according to counties; and in alphabetical order, with the date of the establishment of each. At page 38 will be found a Summary of the Savings Banks, &c. in England; at page 46, of those in Wales; at page 66, of those in Ireland; at page 78, of those in Scotland; and at page 79, a Summary of the whole contained in England, Wales, Ireland, and Scotland.

The APPENDIX will be found to contain, in chronological order, every Return relating to these Institutions, which has been printed by order of the Houses of LORDS and COMMONS since the establishment of SAVINGS BANKS.

At page 80 will be found the Returns from those Savings Banks which were not sent in time for insertion in the body of the Work, although their amounts are included in the Summary, page 79; and at the end of the Appendix the Editor has been enabled, by the kindness of M. BENJAMIN DELESSERT, the President DE LA CAISSE D'EPERONE DE PARIS, to give a Synoptic Table of the Accounts, &c. of the Savings Bank at Paris, from its commencement to the 1st January, 1842, as well as of the Investments in the other Savings Banks in FRANCE.

In preparing this Work for publication, no pains or personal exertions have been spared, the Editor having himself examined, the whole of the Returns, before and after they were sent to the press.

The APPENDIX will be found to contain, in chronological order, every Return relating to these Institutions, which has been printed by order of the Houses of LORDS and COMMONS since the establishment of SAVINGS BANKS.

At page 80 will be found the Returns from those Savings Banks which were not sent in time for insertion in the body of the Work, although their amounts are included in the Summary, page 79; and at the end of the Appendix the Editor has been enabled, by the kindness of M. BENJAMIN DELESSERT, the President DE LA CAISSE D'ÉPARGNE DE PARIS, to give a Synoptic Table of the Accounts, &c. of the Savings Bank at Paris, from its commencement to the 1st January, 1842, as well as of the Investments in the other Savings Banks in FRANCE.

In preparing this Work for publication, no pains or personal exertions have been spared, the Editor having himself examined, the whole of the Returns, before and after they were sent to the press.

The annual payments may be made by weekly, monthly, or quarterly instalments, as may suit the convenience of the party; or instead thereof, a certain sum may be paid down in the first instance.

* EXAMPLE.—On the 13th of December, 1833, a person (whether male or female), aged 24, and under 25, contracts, by annual payments, for an annuity of £20 a year, to be enjoyed by him or her during the rest of his or her life, after the expiration of 30 years, reckoning such period from the time of purchase. Under that contract the party would receive the first half-yearly payment of the said Annuity on the 5th April, 1864, that being the second quarterly day of payment next following the expiration of the Term for which the Annuity was agreed to be deferred. In this case the party would be required, first, to pay down £4 3s. on entering into the contract on the 13th December, 1833, or to have made 12 monthly payments of 6s. 11d. previous to that day; and, secondly, to continue to make the same payments of £4 3s. annually, on or before the 10th of October, in each of the succeeding 30 years; the last, or 30th annual payment, being to be made on the 10th October, 1863.

If the party were to die on the 1st October, 1840, or at that time to become incapable of continuing his payments, the sum of £29 1s., being the amount of what he had paid, would be returned by the Society.

That the interference of the Legislature in taking these institutions under its protection must be highly advantageous to the industrious classes, as well as to the public at large, must be evident at the first sight of our labouring population, especially when it is considered that in addition to the positive advantages arising to the poor, whom it is professed to have principally in view, collateral benefits are derived from the plan by no means immaterial. Every person who has vested his savings in the public funds has a stake in the security of the country, proportioned not merely to the sum total of those savings, but to the value of that sum to himself, and will be deterred from compassing the disturbance of his native land by a personal motive, added to the influence of duty. He will feel the importance of public peace and public credit with that strong conviction which individual interest never fails to inspire: and in answer to the objections of those who would be jealous of the support thus obtained to the ruling powers, it should be observed, that he who possesses property in a country is not interested in the stability of the administration for the time being, but in the perpetual stability of universal order and good government.

At page 79 it will be seen, that on the 20th November, 1841, to which day the last Official Returns are made up, there were FIVE HUNDRED and FIFTY-FIVE Savings Banks established in the United Kingdom, with a capital of £24,474,689, and as there were no less than 841,204 Accounts open, out of which 470,402 were those of Depositors under £20 each, the average amount being not more than £7, and that the number of Depositors exceeding £200 each was only 3,012; it is evident (considering that some of these institutions have been established for more than twenty-five years, and at first without any limit as to amount of investments,) that the Savings Banks of this country have not been abused in the manner generally supposed, but that they are what the Legislature originally intended them to be, viz. places of deposit for the custody and increase of small savings belonging to the industrious classes of Her Majesty's subjects; and if the amount of investments is compared with the population of each county, it will be seen that the average is considerably in favour of the agricultural districts.

To those Noblemen, Clergymen, and others who have come forward, and assisted by their donations as well as personal exertions, in the establishment and support of Savings Banks, the thanks of every well-wisher of the prosperity and happiness of his country are due, particularly when it is considered that from the establishment of these institutions to the present time, the whole management (with the exception of the office of secretary) is not only undertaken and conducted gratuitously, but in all cases has been, and in many instances is now, attended with expense to the trustees and managers.

In the following pages, the Editor has arranged the different Savings Banks according to counties; and in alphabetical order, with the date of the establishment of each. At page 38 will be found a Summary of the Savings Banks, &c. in England; at page 46, of those in Wales; at page 66, of those in Ireland; at page 78, of those in Scotland; and at page 79, a Summary of the whole contained in England, Wales, Ireland, and Scotland.

The APPENDIX will be found to contain, in chronological order, every Return relating to these Institutions, which has been printed by order of the Houses of LORDS and COMMONS since the establishment of SAVINGS BANKS.

At page 80 will be found the Returns from those Savings Banks which were not sent in time for insertion in the body of the Work, although their amounts are included in the Summary, page 79; and at the end of the Appendix the Editor has been enabled, by the kindness of M. BENJAMIN DELESSERT, the President DE LA CAISSE D'ÉPARGNE DE PARIS, to give a Synoptic Table of the Accounts, &c. of the Savings Bank at Paris, from its commencement to the 1st January, 1842, as well as of the Investments in the other Savings Banks in FRANCE.

In preparing this Work for publication, no pains or personal exertions have been spared, the Editor having himself examined, the whole of the Returns, before and after they were sent to the press.
